

DECEASED DRIVER TEST RESULTS:

Deceased drivers or non-motorists involved in a crash will have alcohol or drug test results that come from blood or urine tests from the decedent's autopsy or from the lab or medical facility. The law provides that medical examiners SHALL submit this information to the officer. Therefore, once you receive the results, they must be submitted to FARS.

LIVING DRIVER TEST RESULTS:

Living drivers or non-motorists involved in a crash will have alcohol or drug test results that come from blood, breath, or urine tests that either you submitted to the lab, or you will need to have the prosecutor send a letter (see examples below) to obtain blood or urine test results from the medical facility to which they were taken.
